MSc European Forestry scholarships

Application deadline for the 2011-2013 study period is December 31st 2010 for the applicants seeking Erasmus Mundus scholarships categories A and B (20,000 - 48,000 euro).

MSc EF is a two-year Erasmus Mundus Masters course in forest sciences, policy and management jointly organised by seven leading European universities and supported by the European Commission. MSc EF focuses on the international dimensions of forest resource management and utilisation and prepares students to understand the forest related ecological conditions and socio-economic dynamics in Europe.

MSc EF invites student applications from all over the world. Successful candidates must have a BSc or equivalent in forest sciences or related field and have good command of English language. Additional points can be earned through motivation and recommendation letters, international experience and forestry related work experience.
